The progress bar depends on the types of activities included in the assignment.

Some activities are designed solely for practice purposes and do not generate a score.

For this reason, even if the student has completed all the activities, the progress bar may not show 100% completion.

These non-scored activities will eventually be locked so they do not interfere with the formal evaluation of an assignment.

Suggestion: Check that the activities within the assignment are gradable if you want them to contribute to the total progress.
